“ Several years ago I lost a dear friend . Commenting to a freind that i did not get to see her much, the freind commented that you can always say i love you. at first i thought it little bit weird, but after thinking a while it made more since, after a while i started saying to Shirely I love you sis , she never replied but i knew she did. On our last phone call we must have talked for an hour, She kept going back to her chance to survive the operation but as a good friend, i told her not to talk that way, and brushed it off when we got ready to hang up , before i could say it, she said i love you sis, I told her i love you sis too. those four words I love you sis will stay near my heart.

“ Keep the memory of your sweet Mother's smile with you always. I love the picture you have chosen, lots of happiness in that picture! Butterflies mean a whole lot more now.
Love you Nikkii!
